If you are interested in learning how to create a faculty-led program for study, join us for a workshop and roundtable discussion facilitated by Angela Markley Peterson, assistant director of International Affairs and Education, with special guest Dr. Lolly Ockerstrom, assistant professor of English.

This exciting workshop will cover:

- How to get started developing a faculty-led study abroad program
- What kinds of funding is available for students
- The application process
- How the Office of International Affairs and Education supports faculty
